See you there!

Research News and Highlights

This semester we have been working with the Northeastern Institute for Health Equity and Social Justice Research, that has generously awarded a Health Equity Scholarship to Dr. Rodgers for a project using script driven imagery in the context of weight-related experiences.

We also have some new collaborations with our colleagues Dr. Ambwani and Zimmerman that we look forward to talking more about soon!

We continue our work with the STRIPED program as well as the Model Alliance, and look forward to sharing more findings from our share projects soon as well!

Congratulations!

- Congratulations to Jennifer O'Flynn who successfully defended her dissertation titled "Exploring the Role of Multiple Minority Status in Eating Disorder Symptoms and Help Received Among College Students" this November.
- Congratulations also to Rachel Berry who successfully proposed her dissertation titled "Exploring Longitudinal Relationships Between Fitness Tracking and Disordered Eating" in October
- Congratulations also to Geneva Driscoll who has earned an Advanced Research/Creative Endeavor Award for her project titled : «A Comparison of Macronutrient and Calorie Tracking in Relation to Disordered Eating Outcomes»
- We are also thrilled to announce that Dr. Franko has just been elected as Treasurer of the Eating Disorder Research Society! This is a wonderful recognition, congratulations!

Guest Appearances

This Fall we were lucky enough to receive visits from Dr. Suman Ambwani who was on sabbatical with the STRIPED program.

We also welcomed Nadia Craddock from the Center for Appearance Research (CAR) in Bristol.

Sneak Peak at 2019

We are looking forward to visit of several of our wonderful Australian colleagues during the Spring semester!
