

Crime & Punishment

James Alan Fox on criminal behavior and the justice system

My four year sentence has ended

Posted by James Alan Fox, Crime and Punishment June 30, 2014 12:00 AM

Crime & Punishment

Dear Readers:

I didn't mean to take off without saying goodbye and thank you. As you know, Boston.Com discontinued the Community Voices blogs when it redesigned its site back in April. It was a privilege and a pleasure to write the Crime and Punishment blog over the past four years. I feel honored to be the last survivor of the original cast of bloggers enlisted back in 2010 when this feature was launched.

Fortunately, I have signed on to the Board of Contributors of USA Today, writing a column per month on average. Although it is a not anywhere near the frequency I had enjoyed here with Boston.Com, it certainly does have a wider audience base, both online and print. So I hope to "speak" to many of you through that well-known full color publication.

And once again, thank you.

James Alan Fox