

JAMES ALAN FOX

Introduction for Speaking

James Alan Fox is The Lipman Family Professor of Criminology, Law and Public Policy at Northeastern University in Boston. He has published eighteen books, including Extreme Killing: Understanding Serial and Mass Murder (2014), The Will to Kill: Making Sense of Senseless Murder (2011), and Violence and Security on Campus: From Preschool through College (2010), and hundreds of articles on serial murder, mass killing, school shootings and campus violence, youth violence and capital punishment.

As an authority on homicide, he appears frequently on national television programs, including the Today Show, Meet the Press, Dateline, and various major newscasts, and has worked as an on-air analyst/consultant for NBC/MSNBC News and FOX News. He was profiled in the New York Times, Scientific American, and a two-part cover story in USA Today. As a member of its Board of Contributors, Fox's opinion columns regularly appear in USA Today. Fox often gives lectures and expert testimony, including over one hundred keynote or campus-wide addresses around the country, sixteen appearances before the U.S. Congress, and briefings at the White House and the Department of Justice.
