Digital Integration Teaching Initiative
Fall 2020 Call For Partnerships

The Digital Integration Teaching Initiative (DITI) is now accepting new faculty partnerships for the Spring 2020 academic year. Northeastern has committed to better teaching our undergraduates the digital tools, skills, and methods that will enable them to be successful in today’s world. The DITI was established to help CSSH faculty to meet this goal. We collaborate with faculty across CSSH disciplines to help integrate digital methods and skills across the curriculum. Since we began last year, we have developed modules with 52 faculty from 14 different departments and programs, reaching around 400 students per semester.

The DITI team is thrilled with the growth of this initiative over the past two years. In order to continue to develop partnerships of high quality with our limited resources, we are diversifying the ways we will work with faculty for Fall 2020. First, for partnerships that will involve multi-class or semester-long assignments, you will be working closely with DITI members as we have done in the past. Second, DITI is very excited to be collaborating with the Northeastern University Library on partnering with faculty members. Depending on your course’s module, the team may bring on or refer you to library staff experts. Third, if multiple faculty request the same one-day workshop (for example, citation management with Zotero), we may explore ways to offer the workshop to multiple classes at the same time. We appreciate your openness to diverse ways of teaching our students digital literacies.

In order to successfully plan your partnership for the fall 2020 semester, we request that you:

- Fill out the DITI call for partnerships survey by March 20th, 2020:
- Meet with us for an initial consultation by April 15th, 2020 to confirm basic information (course logistics, module objectives, and more).
- Depending on the learning and module objectives, we will work with you to decide what type of partnership will work best to meet your needs, which may mean working with people outside DITI.

You can learn more about this program at our website: https://web.northeastern.edu/nulab/teaching/digital-teaching-integration/, where you will find information on how the initiative has progressed, view various sample courses, and read our faculty guidelines.

And, if you have questions at all, please contact Cara Marta Messina (messina.c@husky.neu.edu), Assistant Director of the DITI.

We hope to hear from you!
